Woman, granddaughter found brutally murdered

BY D.C. HARVILL

Residents of Waveland's Middletown neighborhood awoke Thursday morning to the news that two of their neighbors, a 67-year-old woman and her five-year-old granddaughter, had been brutally murdered during the night.

Police were called to 508 Morris Street about 9 a.m., after the bodies of Novella Gillum and her granddaughter, Latrice, stabbed to death in the kitchen of the small wood-frame house, were found by a relative.

"They were both stabbed numerous times in the chest and neck area," Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn said.

According to Hancock County Medical Examiner Harold Stiglet, the grandmother had been stabbed 22 times and the five-year-old had been stabbed 16 times.

Investigators from Waveland Police Department, the Mississippi Highway Patrol, Hancock County Sheriff's Department and the District Attorney's office spent most of the day at the scene gathering evidence.

The evidence, including clothing worn by the victims and a piece of flooring removed with a power saw, was sent to the Mississippi Crime Lab.

Mrs. Gillum's pocketbook was found in bushes behind the house, leading the investigators to believe robbery was a motive for the killings, according to Dorn.

A wallet in which she kept her money, believed to have been in the pocketbook, was missing, Dorn said. Mrs. Gillum, whose husband died approximately a year ago, had received Social Security and Railroad Retirement checks at the beginning of the month.

Due to heavy rains early Thursday morning that might have helped conceal from neighbors any suspicious activity at the house, the pocketbook will have to "dry out" before it can be sent to the crime lab, Dorn said.

As of Friday afternoon, the investigators had no suspects in the case.

"I could pick several people off the top of my head but that doesn't mean they did it. It would just be speculation," Dorn said.

Because there was no indication that the house had been entered by force, Dorn speculated Thursday morning that Gillum may have known the person or persons responsible for the deaths.

"She always kept her doors locked," said Gillum's granddaughter Norita Henry, who was among several nieces and granddaughters who waited outside the house while the investigators went about their unhappy business.

The bodies were discovered by Marie James, the wife of Gillum's stepson. James had gone to the house to check on Gillum after being told there had been no answer at the home when the person who drove the child to school had stopped for her that morning. The child was a kindergarten student at Waveland Elementary.

"That was one smart little girl," said Joe Jushaway, who lives directly across the street from the Gillum home.

"That lady (Mrs. Gillum) used to be my baby sitter. She was like a mother to me. This is a hell of a surprise to wake up to," Jushaway said.

According to Jushaway, he had awakened about 12:30 that morning and seen a pickup truck stop in front of the Gillum house with its parking lights on. The truck stayed in front of house for approximately 15 minutes, then drove away, he said.

"I didn't think anything about it at the time," Jushaway said.

Jushaway's father, J.B. Montgomery, ran to the house when he heard James screaming.

"I thought she (Gillum) had a heart attack or something. When I looked in she was in a puddle of blood and I said to myself, 'this woman's dead and the baby, too'. I'm just dumbfounded. I just tore me apart when I saw her on the floor like that. It just busted me apart," Montgomery said.

According to Montgomery, since Gillum's husband died, he and other men in the neighborhood made sure she had an adequate supply of firewood and that her car was in running order.

"That poor woman could barely walk," Montgomery said of Gillum, who was affectionately known as 'Miss Dobbie' by her neighbors and friends.

"It's getting worse all the time. People move here from the city to get away from this kind of thing, but it's like leaving the devil for the witch," one bystander said Thursday morning.

Mrs. Gillum's daughter, Sgt. Irene Gillum Smith, has reportedly been notified of the deaths by the Red Cross and was to leave Korea, where she is stationed with the U.S. Army, on the first available plane.

'Operation Wipeout' nets eleven arrests

BY D.C. HARVILL

Eleven people have been arrested on drug charges by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department as a result of a four-month undercover operation.

"Operation Wipeout" came to a head Thursday night when, with assistance from Bay St. Louis and Waveland Police officers, sheriff's personnel rounded up people on whom evidence had been collected by an undercover agent, according to Sheriff Ronnie Peterson.

"We conduct undercover operations from time to time and will continue to do them. We feel they are effective. Not only do they interrupt the drug flow in the county, they also get us a lot of intelligence. We collect information for about four months and make the arrests all at once," the sheriff said.

As of Friday afternoon, Operation Wipeout had netted eleven people, with more arrests expected.

Arrested are: Gregory P. Harvey, 27, 512 Main St. Bay St. Louis, sale of a controlled substance, cocaine;

Kenneth Goins, 41, 117 McDonald Lane, Bay St. Louis, sale of a controlled substance, marijuana;

Victoria L. Armato, 30, 116 Beth Court, Waveland, sale of a controlled substance, marijuana;

Darryl W. Fuqua, 22, 229-B Keller St., Bay St. Louis, sale of a controlled substance, marijuana;

Neil J. Polk, 21, 125 Railroad Ave., Bay St. Louis, sale of a controlled substance, marijuana;

Paula Watts, 26, Lakeshore, sale of a controlled substance, marijuana;

John G. Christenson, 23, 110 Adrienne Court, Waveland, sale of a controlled substance, Ecstasy;

Kevin P. Kremitz, 20, Rt. 2, Box 428-F Bay St. Louis, sale of a controlled substance, marijuana;

Robin Stevens, 28, 1023 Amar St., Waveland, sale of a controlled substance, Ecstasy; and Mark E. Bates, 32, Covington Street, Bay St. Louis, sale of a controlled substance, marijuana.

Stevens' bond has been set at $10,000. Bond for the remaining 10 subjects has been set at $5,000 each.

According to Narcotics Investigator Glen Strong, because they were used in the illegal narcotics trade, a number of vehicles were confiscated when the arrests were made.

Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy Ruth Lee was the undercover agent who, under Strong's supervision, gathered the evidence that led to the arrests.

"Ruth did an excellent job. We are grateful to her for spending the time to help fight illegal narcotics in Hancock County," Strong said.

Former SSC teacher to lecture on drugs

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Exchange Club and the Bay St. Louis Police Department is sponsoring a presentation by Ashton Brisolara, executive director of the Committee on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse in New Orleans and a former teacher at St. Stanislaus, at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Coast Electric Auditorium.

Brisolara, a part-time Waveland resident, will discuss "Alcoholics and Drug Addicts Are Often Home-Grown," said Exchange Club representative Allyson Keller.

In addition, there will be a 30-minute talk by a recovering drug addict, identified only as "Hawk", whose addiction led to a prison term on vehicular homicide charges.

A local law enforcement agency will also display actual narcotics and paraphernalia.

The public, particularly parents and teachers, are asked to attend, Keller added.

In addition to serving as executive director of the committee, Brisolara is a faculty member at Tulane University School of Medicine and University of Utah School of Alcoholism and other Drug Dependencies, Southeastern School of Alcohol and Drug Studies at University of Georgia, Jefferson Parish Sheriff's Department Training Academy, and Mid-South Executive Development

ASHTON BRISOLARA

Program at Louisiana State University.

Brisolara is a lecturer at Southern University of New Orleans, Charity Hospital School of Nursing in New Orleans, Air Force Chaplain School at Maxwell Airforce Base in Montgomery, Ala., and the Alcoholism Treatment Service at Southeast Louisiana Hospital in Mandeville.

He serves as a visiting professor at University of Southern Mississippi's Hattiesburg and Gulf Park campuses.

In addition, he serves as a consultant for a number of alcohol and drug abuse programs throughout the country.

Before becoming involved in alcohol and drug abuse work on a full-time basis in 1961, Brisolara was a brother of the Order of the Sacred Heart and an educator at several Catholic high schools including St. Stanislaus in Bay St. Louis.

He later became a vocational counselor and principal at schools in New Jersey and Mississippi.

For more information on the program, contact Keller at 467-5895, or Bay St. Louis Police Officer Don Osco at 467-9221.

Third arrest made in Lombardo case

A Louisiana man has been brought to Hancock County on forgery charges related to the Christmas Day 1985 murder of Bay St. Louis resident Frank Lombardo.

Winfield A. "Winkie" Strehle III, 31, of Harahan, La., is accused of claiming to be Lombardo in order to take a physical examination for a $100,000 life insurance policy taken out in Oct. 1984, about a year before Lombardo was found shot and killed in his McDonald Lane residence.

The policy resulted in a $200,000 double indemnity payment from a Birmingham, Ala., firm, Liberty National Insurance Co., to Lombardo's wife, Fran Lombardo.

Fran Lombardo, 40, has been charged with her husband's murder, as has their 21-year-old daughter, Elizabeth Lombardo.

At a November bond hearing for the two, Bay St. Louis Police Department Special Investigator Ray Murphy stated that the signature on the policy was not Frank Lombardo's, but was a forgery.

Murphy has also stated that the physical in question was conducted at Fran Lombardo's home by a registered nurse; Frank and Fran Lombardo were separated at that time.

Strehle was described by Murphy as being five feet, 10 inches tall and weighing about 185 pounds, about 65 pounds less than the man he allegedly impersonated.

The special investigator also testified regarding a statement to police made by 16-year-old Jason Lombardo, who said his mother and sister told him about his father's death more than hours before Frank Lombardo's burned body was discovered sprawled on a living room couch.

Later, a medical examiner found that the man had been shot three times.

Both of the Lombardo women, who had been living in Orange County, Calif., when they were arrested in August, were brought back to Mississippi in October and are in the Hancock County Jail on bonds of $100,000 each.

Strehle was returned to Hancock County on Friday by St. Charles Parish, La., authorities. He had waived extradition procedures and at about 7 p.m. Friday, Strehle was freed on $50,000 bond.

Strehle was indicted for possession of cocaine with intent to distribute in January 1985, a charge that was dismissed in August of the following year, but at the time of the arrest, he was driving a car which belonged to Virginia Guilbeau of Kiln.

Fran Lombardo has been questioned by Orange County authorities with regard to the death of Guilbeau's son, 33-year-old Kendrick Ladner, whose burned body was found last year in Orange County.

Ladner's body had been found but not yet identified when Fran Lombardo reported that he was missing.

VICTORIAN FEMINIST

Can a woman truly have both a successful marriage and successful career? "The Yellow Wallpaper," premiering on "Masterpiece Theatre" at 9 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 17 on Mississippi ETV, focuses in dramatic terms on this persistent question among most women today.

Adapted from a short autobiographical novella by American feminist writer Charlotte Perkins Gilman and first published in 1892, "The Yellow Wallpaper" tells the story of Charlotte, a strongly creative woman who is desperate to work, but her husband will have none of it.

Her physician husband diagnoses her as suffering from "nervous fatigue," and he takes her to a strange country house he has rented to help her recover. He insists that her cure lies in doing nothing.

Confined to a top-floor room, Charlotte begins to be obsessed with its wallpaper.

Bay St. Louis Police Detective Tom Burleson said two television sets, four VCRs and eight boxes of hamburger patties were discovered missing by school employees when they reported to work at 6:30 a.m. Thursday.

He said the thief apparently got into the school through the cafeteria and probably did not enter the main building.

Anyone with information about the crime can call Burleson at Bay St. Louis Police Department, 467-9221.

IRS seeks tax volunteers

Community organizations and businesses are needed to participate in VITA, the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program sponsored by the Internal Revenue Service.

Special emphasis is currently being placed on recruiting new organizations for the upcoming 1990 filing season. Free income tax assistance is frequently provided by local civic organizations, educational institutions, churches and neighborhood groups. During the previous filing season IRS trained more than 450 volunteers who assisted approximately 6,500 taxpayers at 113 sites throughout Mississippi.

VITA volunteers help lower income, handicapped, elderly and non-English speaking individuals who have simple tax returns. Volunteers receive a four-to-five day training course in basic income tax law, taught by specially trained IRS instructors.

More complicated issues, such as business income and sale of assets, are beyond the scope of the program and are excluded from VITA.

Correction

Sunday's edition of The Sea Coast Echo contained an incorrect report that the county had provided additional funds to Meology, a drug awareness program.

The matter was actually taken under advisement while the board of supervisors attorney researches authorization for providing money to such programs.

The Echo regrets the error.

Training classes will be conducted in December and are often held at the site of the sponsoring group during work hours. IRS will gladly schedule classes for community groups or businesses who wish to participate.

Interested organizations are invited to contact the Volunteer and Education Office at (601) 965-4142 or toll-free at 1-800-424-1040.

Efforts will be made to place individual volunteers with sponsoring VITA organizations seeking additional assistants.

Buying service contracts

Service contracts, also called extended warranties and service agreements, are repair insurance policies. Because there are many different kinds of service contracts with different terms, it's important to shop around and ask questions before you decide if or when you should buy one. In fact, you should shop for a service contract as carefully as you do for the product itself.

When shopping for a service contract, find out exactly what it covers, as well as what it does not cover. Some service contracts cover only parts, some cover only labor. Others may cover only some parts. Also, the service contract may or may not cover routine maintenance as well as require you to pay a fee for each service call.

When you know that the service contract covers, read the warranty carefully too. You may find they cover the same, or at least some of the same repairs. If the coverage overlaps, but you want that protection for a longer period of time, ask the salesman if you can buy the service contract after the warranty expires.

Shopping around, asking questions and comparing the warranty to the service contract can help you make a wise decision about whether or when to buy a service contract.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

There will be an American Red Cross blood drawing on Wednesday from 1 to 7 p.m., at the Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray American Legion Post No. 77, Coleman Avenue, Waveland.

The Hancock County Blood Bank officials are hoping to collect 100 units at the drive Wednesday.

Lin Rutherford, co-chairman for the Waveland Legion drive, states there is a need for all the blood people share with them, especially during this holiday season.

A unit of blood donated can save a person's life, Lin Rutherford said.

Business, industries, civic and church groups are all urged to come as a unit if they would like to do so.

If you need further information, call Lin Rutherford at 467-6276 or Andy Giacconi, co-chairman, at 467-3385.

John Rutherford, Hancock County blood chairman, reports a successful drive was held last week at Bay High when 90 units were collected.

I need not tell the young folks that bad weather caused dangerous traveling for Santa Thursday and he had to cancel his visit to Bay St. Louis.

I have been told by some reliable sources that Santa hasn't forgotten his visit to Hancock County and his visit will be rescheduled.

I am hoping to be able to give the young boys and girls some news about when he will visit in Thursday's paper.

I would suggest that some youngsters may want to prepare a list of their wishes so they can be ready when Santa arrives.

We have had our share of rain during past couple of months.

It seems nature has really made up for the dry spell earlier this year.

My yard is so wet and soggy it is hard to walk across it and I sure hope the rains will take a brief spell, so things can dry out a bit.

I know those trying to raise a fall and winter garden must be having fits trying to get plants to grow without drowning.

I am sure there will be times next year when we will appreciate a little rainfall.

I am glad to hear our board of supervisors is trying new ways to address garbage in the county.

I know from previous experiences that dumpsters just do not work properly for the collection of household garbage.

I am hoping that the two "convenience centers" will work and that possibly others can replace other dumpster sites.

Manned facilities seem to be needed for any type of garbage collection, because most people want to deliver garbage and get away from it as fast as possible.

The two new "convenience centers" are scheduled to be in operation by mid-January, with one being located at Washington and Chapman Roads and the other at the Jervis Moran site on Old Kiln-Picayune Road.

I am glad our elected officials are working to try and help solve some of our garbage problems.

WASHINGTON REPORT

Senator's mobile office to visit Bay on Dec. 12

Senator Thad Cochran is dispatching his mobile office staff to five Gulf Coast area counties on Dec. 12 and 13.

The senator's mobile office will make stops in Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, George and Stone counties during the two-day span.

On Tuesday, Dec. 12, the senator's mobile office staff will be at the Hancock County Courthouse in Bay St. Louis at 11 a.m., the Harrison County Courthouse in Gulfport at 2 p.m., and the Harrison Courthouse in Biloxi at 4 p.m.

On Wednesday, Dec. 13, the mobile office staff will be at the Jackson-George Regional Library Branch in Pascagoula at 9 a.m., the George County Courthouse in Lucedale at 11 a.m., and the Stone County Courthouse in Wiggins at 1:30 p.m.

Citizens who may wish to discuss a problem involving a federal agency, or an issue before the 101st Congress, are invited to stop by and confer with the senator's staff. Interested persons should contact the Chancery Clerk's office for exact location at the courthouse in their respective area.

In Pascagoula, the stop will be in Meeting Room D of the Jackson-George Regional Library. The mobile office will be at each stop for approximately one hour.

The visits by Cochran's mobile office to Bay St. Louis, Biloxi, Gulfport, Pascagoula, Lucedale and Wiggins on Dec. 12 and 13 are part of the constituent service program he initiated to help provide direct contact between his office and officials at the local level in Mississippi's 82 counties.

SMILE FOR THE CAMERA

Shoplifters get more than they bargained for.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi Economic Council

Effort to do business at home worthwhile

Mississippians should at least try to do their Christmas shopping in their hometown at their local businesses.

As the Christmas season hits full stride, many Mississippians have already planned to do their shopping out-of-state, either in a neighboring state's city or from a mail-order catalog.

Perhaps this was once necessary when the production of transportation of certain goods was limited. But with today's improved methods of shipping merchandise, Mississippi merchants carry practically everything offered by their neighboring counterparts. Further, our retail sector has grown.

Give Mississippi businesses a chance. If a store doesn't have something you may want, ask if the owner can get it for you. Businesses survive by pleasing you.

As for out-of-state mail-order catalogs, while they certainly contain unique items, remember they put not one red cent back into a local economy because they don't have to pay the sales tax that burdens many state businesses.

Have fun Christmas shopping, and when possible, try to shop at home.

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

It is possible to reduce taxes and reduce federal treasury

Is it possible to reduce taxes and boost the federal treasury simultaneously? The answer is YES! We can do it by reforming the capital gains tax.

A capital gain involves appreciation in the value of an asset between the date of its purchase and its sale. That asset could be a stock, a business or a home. If a home is purchased for $50 thousand and sold later for $75 thousand, there is a capital gain of $25 thousand. It is this profit which induces people to invest.

Until recently, these gains were either taxed separately from ordinary income under an alternative tax, or they received a partial exclusion from the tax under the regular rate schedule.

However, in 1986 Congress thought it came up with a better idea. As often is the case, Congress was wrong.

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 dramatically altered the tax treatment of capital gains. For the first time since 1922, capital gains were treated the same as ordinary income. This was a mistake.

First, what are often referred to as "gains" are sometimes purely inflationary increases in asset prices. When adjusted for inflation, those "gains" are really not gains at all.

And second, it curbs business investment. Profit is the motive for individuals and businesses to invest and expand. High capital gains taxes discourage investment and ultimately the purchase of new plants and equipment by businesses.

One business in particular hit hard by the rise in capital gains tax has been the timber industry. Without reform, many of those now in the timber business, may be forced to scale back their operations or even shut down.

I am pleased to report that there is a movement in Congress to act. Though a cut in the capital gains rate had been opposed by members of the Democratic leadership and Rep. Don Rostenkowski, Chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, the first step on the legislative path to reform has been taken. A measure has passed the Committee which would, in effect, produce a maximum capital gains rate of 19.6 percent. The vote was bipartisan 19 to 17. Now it will go to the full House.

If passed, this reduction will increase tax revenues. The Administration, which favors a reduction, believes a decrease in the capital gains tax could increase the federal treasury by almost $5 billion in the first year alone.

In 1978, a cut in the capital

McComb students emerge as world champions

When students at McComb High School entered the world finals of the "Olympics of the Mind" competition this year in Boulder, Colo., they learned the power of knowledge and innovation.

They faced the world's best in constructing and complicated mechanism to perform 12 tasks automatically. But that was not enough; they were also judged on style.

These Mississippi students squared off against world-class competition and they emerged World Champions!

Innovation can beat the competition. It's what someone once called "building a better mouse trap." Innovation is doing things differently to get better results.

Innovation is a common thread that runs throughout Mississippi's BEST—Better Education for Success Tomorrow. And innovation is the whole idea behind a key program in BEST called the Corporation for Educational Innovation.

The corporation is not a company, an institution, or a bureaucracy—it is a group of people interested in helping our schools to innovate. It is also a group that will hold all of us accountable for making absolutely sure Mississippi's BEST is put into effect so that our children are ready for the turn of the century.

Nothing would be more tragic than to pass historic legislation only to have it get bogged down in bureaucracy or turf protection. The corporation would be required to report annually to the Legislature on implementation of Mississippi's BEST. This will assure that education is held accountable for improvements, just like any other business or endeavor.

There is no group better suited for this because it will represent education at all levels as well as business, the community and other vital groups. No one area of education or segment of the community has a lock on innovation. We need to draw on areas of our state for help.

The corporation will not focus just on public schools. Instead, it will look at education from pre-school through adulthood—because education doesn't just begin when the first school bell rings or end with a graduation ceremony.

The corporation can do some things that no other state education body can do such as draw resources—including financial resources—from areas such as business, higher education, community groups, associations and other groups concerned about lifelong education.

The corporation does not compete with or interfere with the State Board of Education. In fact, the State Board would appoint members to the corporation as would the Junior and Community College Board and the Board of Trustees for the Institutions of Higher Learning.

Again, the corporation's focus is on creating innovation in our schools.

The power of innovation is enormous, and it is also infectious. The corporation can help create a greenhouse for ideas and innovation, and those good ideas will spread throughout Mississippi schools given a chance. That is why the corporation will expire in the year 2001, unless the Legislature extends its life.

Business people in Mississippi understand that innovation means—to their bottom line and to Mississippi as a whole.

Many of Mississippi's top business people strongly support the corporation because they know that innovation is what separates the ordinary from the extraordinary; it is the difference between profit and loss; and it can determine whether Mississippi is more competitive or less competitive than other states or other nations when it comes to jobs and income.

Those McComb High School students have taught us all a lesson: Innovation is a winner. Now it is up to us to make innovation work to achieve Mississippi's best.

A tree, or not a tree: a holiday question

Last weekend, I gave in and bought my Christmas tree much earlier than I had planned to buy it, mostly because I found just the right one for a Christmas when I had considered not having a tree at all.

It's really not a tree at all, anyway. It's a bunch of metal and plastic which looks reasonably like a little pine.

In past years, I have used a live tree that was given to me as a gift when it was around five inches tall. It's heading for two feet now and is about to outgrow its current flower pot.

When it was a little tree, it sat nicely on a table and held only a few ornaments, but it looked pretty.

When I used that same tree the year before last, I had to put it on a stand and wheel it into the house from its spot by the back door, and then I was afraid to put it on a table because it was so heavy. (I thought I might be able to lift the pot with some help, but I didn't think my little table could handle it.)

I set the tree on the floor and discovered that it posed a problem I hadn't expected—to my dog Corky Scott, it was just a tree. Christmas didn't enter into the matter.

Try explaining to a dog that he can't use a tree he finds indoors in the same way he uses the trees he finds outdoors. You're not going to get through to him—to him, it's just a tree, no matter where it is, and he considers it an outhouse.

After hefting the tree onto a sturdy milk crate alleviated that problem, Corky decided to untrim the thing, standing on his hind feet to remove the ornaments and proudly bringing them to show me, one by one.

The conversation went something like this, with the dog speaking in canine sign language, of course:

"Look, Dena. I found this. It fell off that tree you've acted so strangely about."

"Okay, I'll put it back on...What do you think you're doing? Leave that alone. You can't eat that."

"I didn't do anything. I just sniffed it and it fell off."

"I saw you take it off. Now give it back."

"Great! The human wants to play keep-away. This will be fun."

That was enough of that. Last year, my husband Joe and I were away during Christmas and we put lights and ornaments on our front windows and a wreath on the front door instead of fooling with a tree.

This year, we had a detailed conversation regarding the type of Christmas tree we could NOT have, with two dogs and a cat in the house.

First, we decided that using a live tree is out. The one we have is too big now to set up on a table, and placing the thing on a table wouldn't be much of a deterrent to our cat Amstel anyway.

What we have for a decoration can't smell like a tree, and it can't be planted in real dirt because—well, everyone knows that cats use dirt the same way dogs use trees.

Our Christmas tree will have to be on a table because Shadow, the taller of the two dogs, can reach above the top of the table, but a standard-type tree stand should be high enough to keep her out of the lower branches. Of course, the table will have to be covered with something to keep the stand from scratching it.

We settled on the artificial tree, about four feet tall, and went ahead and bought it in case the store runs out of them.

As pet owners, we have to make some concessions so that all three species in our household can live together compatibly. I was beginning to think I'd gone a little too far regarding a pet-proof holiday, however, when a friend with a small child pointed out that Joe and I are all set for our two baby nieces, Samantha and Katie, to visit us.

I was delighted to find out that anything designed to be pet-proof is also likely to be out-of-reach of your average baby. This year, I'll see Samantha and Katie at the family Christmas celebration, but next year, I'll be ready for them to visit the coast, all because of a little artificial tree and a few animals.

Year-end tax savings strategies offered

By Janet K. Lukens
Area Consumer Management Specialist

There are a few things taxpayers can do to save on taxes for 1989, even though time is short.

Pay off high-interest debt. Interest on consumer debt such as car loans and credit card bills is only 20 percent deductible in 1989.

Next year only 10 percent of the interest will be deductible. So it is a good idea to pay off loans as soon as possible, especially those with high interest rates.

Some financial experts suggest that you use a home-equity loan to pay off high-interest consumer debt. That can be a smart move; since the interest you pay on home-equity loans of up to $100,000 is completely deductible.

Remember, home-equity loans carry a serious risk, if you miss monthly payments you can lose your home. So you must be disciplined about paying off home-equity loans.

Medical Expenses. If you incurred big medical expenses this year, it could create a tax deduction for you.

You can deduct medical and dental expenses once they exceed 7.5 percent of your adjusted gross income. So get that medical or dental checkup now instead of January. Buy any eyeglasses you need now.

Pay Early. If you have extra cash, pay certain tax deductible expenses in advance. For example, your mortgage payments: the more interest you pay, the bigger your 1989 tax deduction.

Individual Retirement Account (IRA). The reform cut the number of people who can make tax-deductible contributions to individual retirement accounts.

Between 70 and 80 percent of all working Americans can still deduct all or part of their IRA contribution.

If your family's adjusted gross income is $40,000 (25,000 for singles), you can take an IRA deduction. If you are not covered by a retirement plan at work, you can deduct an IRA contribution up to $2,000 ($4,000 if your spouse is not covered by a company plan). The deduction phases out as your income rises, to $50,000 ($35,000 for singles).

Child Care Tax. Parents who use day care centers or babysitters for children under the age of 13 have a new rule to claim the child care credit or to use a dependent care assistance plan at work.

Beginning this year, you must list the name, address and Social Security number of your caregiver on your tax return and the employer identification number for the day care center.

gains tax produced an additional $2.6 billion.

Many of our trading partners, like Taiwan, Korea, West Germany and Hong Kong don't tax capital gains at all. If that economic philosophy works in those countries, it will certainly work in ours.

But for whom will it work?

Those with money to invest will certainly benefit and as they do, so will the federal kitty. The economy will see a new churning as business and industry expand and create new jobs. And the elderly will be helped as they sell off their assets for retirement. In fact, anyone who sells a home will reap the benefit.

As one economist put it, "We have met the beneficiaries of capital gains tax reductions and they are all of us."

Watson praises Area Calling Plan

According to Southern District Commissioner George Watson, the local calling arrangement on the Gulf Coast is a primary example of why the Mississippi Public Service Commission ordered South Central Bell to offer the new Area Calling Plan.

"Telephone users all over Mississippi have concerns about long distance calling between nearby locations, but nowhere were these concerns more intense than on the Gulf Coast," Watson said.

The Area Calling Plan is an ideal way to strengthen the ties between communities across the Coast. I believe the economic development of the area will be enhanced as a result of the plan."

On Aug. 10, 1988, the Public Service Commission ordered South Central Bell to propose an optional statewide plan that would provide a way for ratepayers to control their local telephone rates, help low income persons have access to the network, and provide an alternative to long distance calling between nearby communities. The Area Calling Plan was introduced as a result of that order.

The plan became available on the Coast Dec. 1. It is already available in 40 Mississippi communities, and it will be offered all over Mississippi by the end of 1990.

The plan here is unique, though, because nowhere else does the Area Calling Plan local calling area stretch across so large a region.

"The potential savings to GulfCoast telephone customers are really significant when you compare the cost of long distance calling with the cost of the Area Calling Plan," Watson said.

"Plus, the plan offers many other advantages. For example, it will provide a lower basic rate for those who want to control the cost of their local phone bill by controlling how many calls they make this makes telephone service more affordable for more people."

Watson said that the Area Calling Plan is possible because of state-of-the-art telephone equipment on the Coast.

"I'm pleased that the Gulf Coast is going to experience a significant, tangible benefit from the telecommunications technology here," Watson said.

Christmas gift ideas abound at bank-sponsored open house

BY JANET MCQUEEN
 Hancock Bank is acutely aware of the struggle small businesses face to compete for Christmas shopping dollars in the community.

In an effort to make shoppers aware of the variety of mer-

Merchants participating in Hancock Bank's first annual Christmas Showing included Bridalaire, Adams Loraine Flower Shop, Ellen Kane Gifts,

A spending plan for the holidays

The time is here to develop a spending plan for the holidays to help keep you from facing financial stress in 1990 because of overspending before the holiday season. The following strategies can be of help.

* Estimate how much you can afford to spend on gifts and stick to it.

* Estimate the "other" costs of the holidays such as postage, cards, wrapping paper, decorations, tree, clothing, parties and special meals.

* Practice comparison shopping. Shop around before buying expensive items.

* To pay for your purchases use cash or a check. If you have to use credit to pay for your purchase, use it wisely and keep a record of each amount spent.

* Avoid special offers of "buy today and no payments until March, April of May," unless the account has an interest free feature.

* Keep sales receipts, since many stores will not honor a return without it.

* Plan for next year's holiday season by estimating how much money you are going to need. Then divide that amount on a regular basis.

* If cash is available take advantage of the "after Christmas sales." Leftover wrapping paper, ribbon, cards and decorations are usually on sale at half price.

Store the items in a safe, dry place for use next year.

FOR THE HOLIDAYS!

Doll and Toy Fund makes Christmas happy for many

Special to the Echo
From its humble beginning in 1973, the Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund has mushroomed into the organized effort that provides toys for more than 1,000 children. In the first year of its existence

just 16 children received toys.
Former Chief Fayard
recalled that two of the children were from Shoreline, a few from Waveland, and the rest from the Bay. At that time there were no cash donations, and used toys were the only source of gifts.

Under the administration of former Chiefs Robert Gavanie and Greg Richardson the fund grew slightly, with rare financial donations supplementing the supply of used toys.

When Chief Andrew Lizana took over, he organized the effort bringing it to the point it is today. As the parent of a large family, he can empathize with those who are unable to provide for their children at Christmas.
He set out to make the collection of used toys go on through the year. It is not unusual to see boxes of toys and bicycles in his office. This affords firefighters the opportunity to repair articles when they have some spare time.

Financial support from the United Way and other donors have made possible the purchase of new toys and gifts for the children. County retailers have benefited, too because of the chief's policy that items be purchased locally.

Recently, city and state officials have become involved by initiating an annual car wash with the proceeds to be used for the Doll and Toy Fund. About a month before Christmas it is set up at a local area and if one wishes to have his or her vehicle washed by the mayor of Bay St.
Louis or a state senator, this is their opportunity.

Toys are bundled in bags and boxes with the family name clipped to it. At least one new toy and several good used toys are provided for each child. As a rule, the gifts are not wrapped in order to give parents a chance to decorate them as they wish.
This phase of the operation takes many days and everyone at the fire department as well as their families are pressed into service.

Sometimes parents make special requests such as "a soft toy that can be hugged" or "anything sports related." The chief understands these special needs and complies as much as possible.

As bags are completed, families are called and may come to the station to pick them up.
Those who live too far away or who are unable to come have theirs delivered by firefighters or volunteers. As Christmas draws nearer the activity becomes more and more accelerated until at last all packages have been picked up or delivered and the end of the names has been reached.

After the first of the year, the activity picks up again with the sending of "thank you" notes and the compiling of a financial report to be given to all interested parties. Most feel, after reading the report, that it is remarkable that so many children were able to receive a gift considering the amount of money that was available.

Chief Lizana gratefully acknowledges the support of his donors. He and all the personnel at the Bay St. Louis Fire Department all get a feeling of gratification knowing through their effort, and that of all the other people connected with the Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund, many children had a happier Christmas.

What's in a name?

African American is the latest of a string of names or labels which 'Colored People-Negroes-Black Americans' have had imposed on them. They are not inherited, because none of these names came to us by right of birth, but rather by judgments of contemporaries.

To get directly to the heart of the matter, do any of these labels make much sense? In order to make more sense than another label, a particular label must say more about an individual, and say it better, than any other label. Which, then, of the succession of labels says more of our now-called African Americans?

The term 'African American' certainly describes well an African-white or black, however—who has migrated to this country and become a U.S. citizen, just as 'German American' describes well a German who has come here and become a U.S. citizen.

But what about someone like myself, whose origins are from more than one country? I have no illusions that none of my roots are in Africa. One has but to look at a picture of my mother's father to see many traces of Africa in the shape of his face, in the rough texture of his hair, and in the dark hue of his skin.

However, his wife, my mother's mother, was indistinguishable from any Caucasian woman. Her roots went back through the dizzy maze of French-Canadian-Black genealogy

Reflections

On Life

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVT.

gies which lead a researcher through baptismal registers and birth registers of both sides of the black-white racial spectrum.

As if that were not enough, my father left us a picture of his great-grandmother who looked no different from a Choctaw squaw, because that is exactly what she was. Of course, we are aware that the forebears of our American Indians left Asia thousands of years ago and crossed the Bering Strait in pursuit of bison.

Our famous Choctaw's husband supplied the last piece of the puzzle. He hailed from French Canada, and looked and sounded every bit the part of the progeny of a French transplant.

Where does that leave me and my siblings? For one thing, in an extremely ambiguous position for any meaningful labels. On the one hand, there is no reason why I would want to deny my African-American roots. On the contrary, I am proud of them.

On the other hand, that is certainly not enough to describe my origins, my appearance and the melange of my racial and cultural background. I speak for maybe most 'African Americans' when I say that I come from two or three continents: Africa, Europe and Asia. While this phenomenon is quite prevalent along the Gulf and Atlantic Coast states, it is often found inland as well.

Most blacks would have to be well hyphenated in order to be described adequately. Try, for instance, and 'Afro-Euro-Asian American' to describe someone with a mostly African maternal grandfather, whose wife had European roots; with a Choctaw Indian paternal great-grandmother, whose husband had European roots.

Frankly, none of the descriptive labels, including the term 'African American' itself, do much justice to the richness of the rainbow shades of appearance and culture which are our heritage.

Father Edward Braxton, a young black theologian, observes in a recent article that, since no one can arbitrarily name a people, naming must be part of the outward expression of the unique struggles of people of African ancestry in this country.

That is clear. However, accuracy of descriptive names remains a real problem. Meanwhile, most important of all is the Christmas message that Jesus identified equally with all peoples everywhere.

Safety tips for trimming Christmas tree with lights

Tests conducted by the Underwriter's Laboratory U.L. show that a live tree is one of the most combustible Christmas decorations in a home.

U.L. tested the combustibility of 6-7 foot tall spruce, fir, pine and pine trees. These trees were consumed in flames in only 36 seconds of ignition. During this short time, flames up to 23 feet were produced.

U.S. Electric safety director Royce Shiyon offers the following safety tips for anyone planning to use a live tree in their home this holiday season.

* Use only a freshly cut tree. Sift off the trunk at an angle, one inch above the original cut. Make lengthwise slits at the base of the trunk to help the tree absorb water.

* Add water to the reservoir as needed. (Heating units dry out trees quickly, so be sure to check the water level often.)

* Shiyon recommends the safety measures listed below for both live and artificial trees:

* Always use electric lights, never candles. Check each set of lights (new and old) for broken or cracked sockets, frayed or bare wires and loose connections. Damaged sets should not be used or repaired before using.

* Use only lights and extension cords approved by Underwriter's Laboratory. These sets can be identified by a tag bearing the letters U.L.

* Be careful not to overload your wiring system. Check the manufacturer's recommendations before connecting several strings of lights to extension cords or wall sockets.

* Never use electric lights on extension cords. Also, use care when using metal foil icicles. Electrical problems are possible should the icicles become entangled in the light sockets.

* All outdoor electrical lighting and equipment should be waterproof. Rubber gaskets should be used in each socket and the sockets should hang downward to help keep water out.

* When replacing a bulb, or working on electrically operated decorations, always turn the electricity off.

* Do not leave your tree lights burning when no one is home or after everyone is asleep.

Shiyon said that conventional Christmas tree lamps made in the United States have an average surface temperature of 260 degrees for blue and green colors, somewhat less for red, white and yellow.

Two hundred sixty degrees is well below the ignition temperature of live Christmas trees, but continuous contact with this heat plus the natural drying of the tree tends to lower the ignition temperature drastically.

"We hope everyone will plan for a safe holiday season," Shiyon said. "By keeping alert to possible electrical and fire hazards involving Christmas trees, families can enjoy a safe holiday season."

Information sought on holiday projects

The Sea Coast Echo is planning to run a listing of all holiday fundraising projects and assistance programs in our Dec. 17 issue.

Any agency or club which would like to be included in the list should contact the Echo at 467-5474 or bring the information to the office during regular business hours.

We need your organization's name, type of project, a telephone number and a contact person. Also needed is information regarding what type of donations can be accepted (food, toys, cash contributions, etc.).

We thank you for your cooperation and hope we can assist you in providing someone with a better Christmas.

SECTION B

THE SEA COAST ECHO—SUNDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1989-1B

Pets should be chosen wisely if being given for Christmas

BY D.C. HARVILL

Pets are important in the lives of many people. Whether their pets serve as hobbies and sources of entertainment or as surrogate friends and family, most pet owners can attest to the therapeutic value inherent in man's interaction with his furred, feathered and finned compatriots. Because pets are popular gifts, pet store owners and pet department managers say their sales increase as Christmas Day draws near.

"Our business really picks up after the 15th of December. Because you can't really hide a pet in the closet people usually wait until just before Christmas to make their purchase," said Agnes Dalton, owner of Gulf Aquarium and Pet Shop in Waveland.

Wal-Mart's pet department manager Donna Marjole says she also has seen a rise in pet sales.

"They make little children happy," she said.

"We've been selling plenty of fish and aquariums. People usually buy aquarium starter kits. We also sell a lot of hamsters but, if you get two, you can have babies every 16 days," she said.

According to Marjoles, birds make the best pets.

"You just have to give them feed and make sure they have lots of clean water," she said.

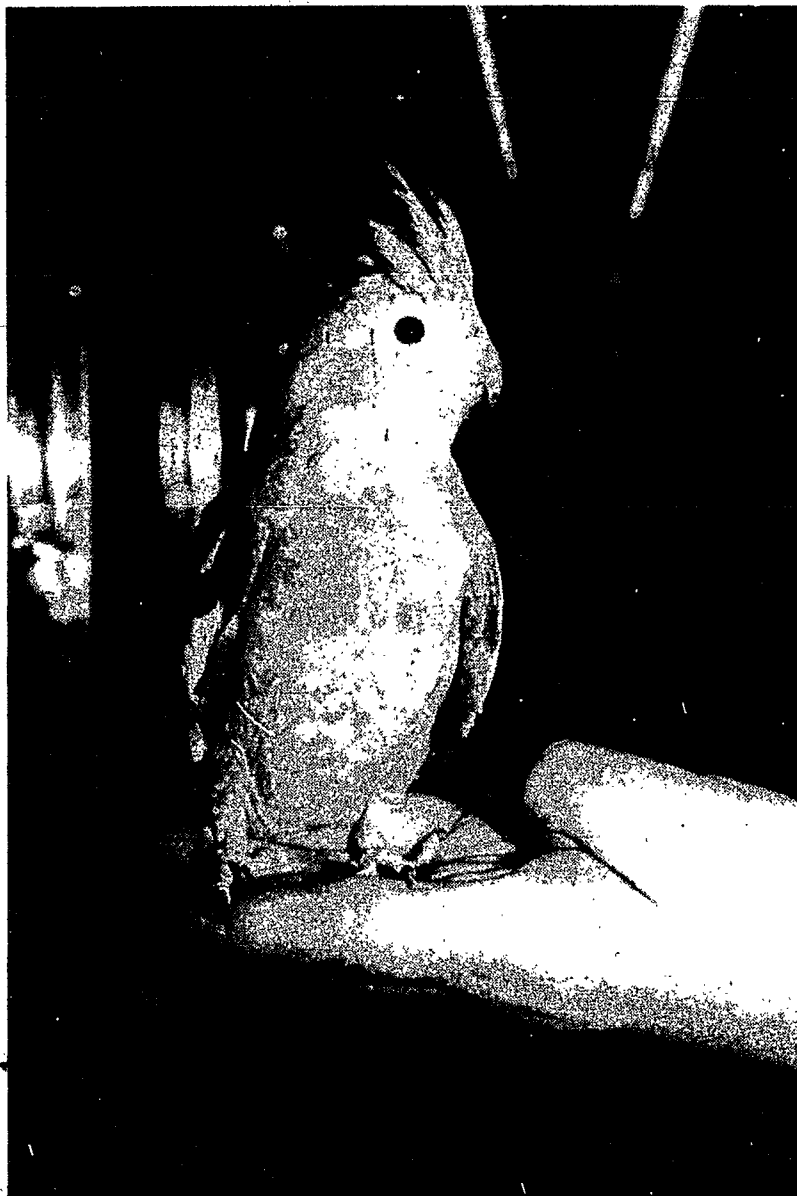

Dalton's recommendation for the ideal pet category might surprise some people. She prefers rats.

"They're not the gray field rats, they are Norway rats that have been domesticated and come in any color and contrary to popular belief, they don't carry rabies," she said.

Rats are intelligent, clean and can be house in a small area with a minimum of care. They have been preferred as pets in Europe for many years, Dalton said.

The kind of pet given as a present depends on the recipient's age, Dalton said.

"We don't recommend that birds be given to small children because, if they aren't fed and watered regularly, they will die

Birds, like this grey cockatiel, are good pets and entertaining companions

Donna Marjole marks a price on a bag containing a gold fish

Two of the animal shelter's kittens exhibit the playfulness that makes them popular pets

Waveland Animal Shelter worker Tina Adams gets close to one of the cats housed at the facility

easily," she said. Her recommended pet for a small child is—you guessed it—a rat. Because rats are intelligent, the fifth smartest animal, they are less likely to bite a child who handles it roughly, she said.

Because local water supplies contain a great deal of water, Marjoles advises customers who purchase fish to treat the water with a dechlorinator before placing the fish in it.

While pets are popular gift items, Christmas is not the best time to give certain animals as presents.

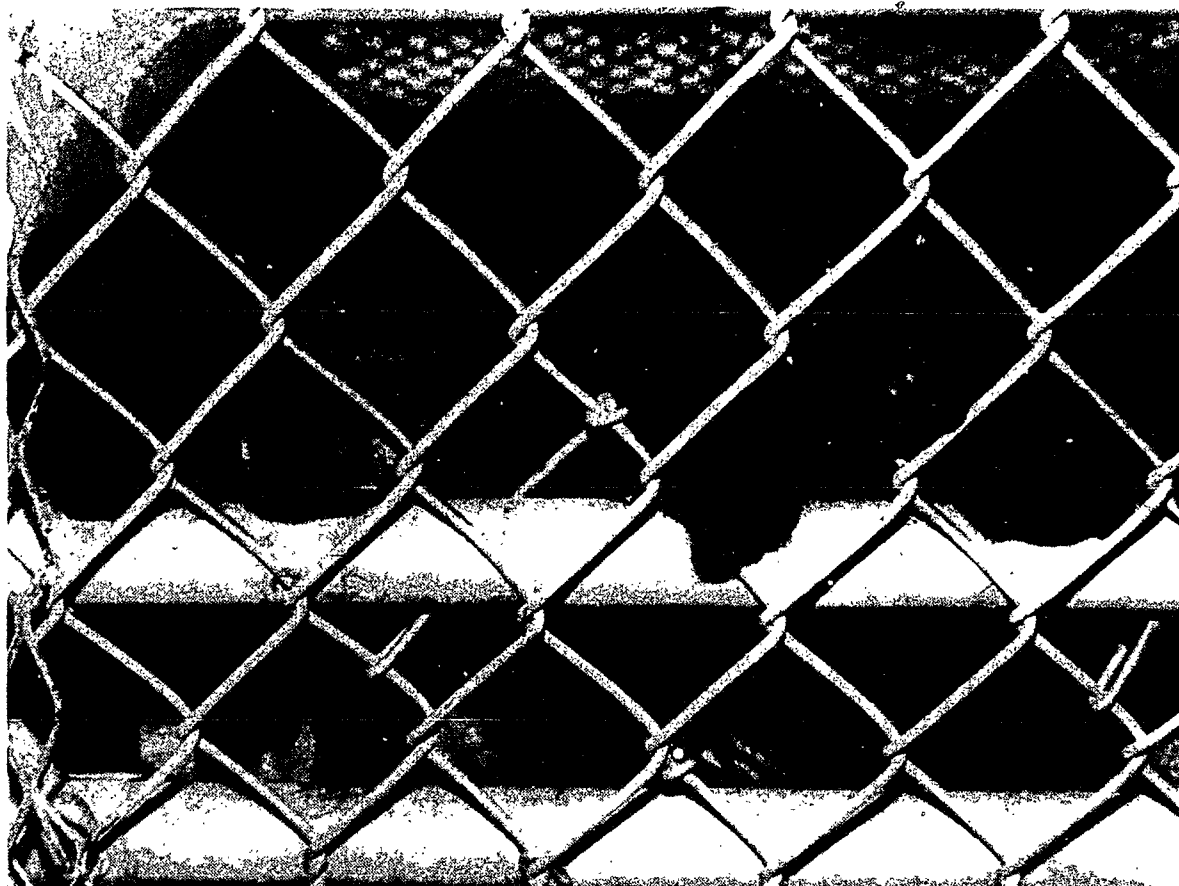

"If we even suspect a puppy is going to be a Christmas present for a small child we don't let them have it, because tinsel, electric lights and other decorations are bad for them," Waveland Animal Shelter Manager Ed Abson said.

According to Abson, the shelter's adoption rate usually does not increase at Christmas time.

The shelter has numerous cats, dogs, puppies and kittens available for adoption. Many of the animals that go through the shelter are from good homes but their owners have died or moved into housing where they cannot have pets, Abson said.

More than 160 animals were handled by the shelter last month, of which 12 were reclaimed by their owners, and 40 were adopted, according to Abson.

Your responsibility as a dog owner

As a dog owner, you should be concerned with the health and habits of your dog—for the dog's sake, for your family's sake and for your neighbors' sake. Dog ownership, with all of its satisfactions, brings a corresponding responsibility. This responsibility must be considered in the light of living together peacefully in the community—whether your dog is a household pet, a working animal or both. Below are some rules related to your responsibility as a dog owner.

Do—

—Take your dog to the veterinarian routinely for immunizations against rabies and other diseases so as to protect his health as well as yours, your family's and your neighbors'.

—Inspect your dog's body routinely for signs of diseases or injuries, such as cuts or abrasions.

—Feed your dog regularly and adequately. Refrain from petting him while he is eating. Even the best trained dogs resent interference of any kind at their eating time.

—Keep your dog's kennel and yard sanitary by periodic cleaning and spraying.

—Make provision for the proper care of your dog when you are away from home for more than a day.

—Teach your dog good manners and obedience.

—Take note periodically of your dog's activities while out-of-doors. In this way, he won't roam the neighborhood, overturning garbage cans, tearing up flower beds, soiling lawns and being a public pest.

Don't—

—Let your dog chase bicycles or cars. From sheer excitement, it might bite the operator or lead to other accidents. In any event, injury or loss of life for which you might be held liable, could result.

—Let your dog bark and frighten service people who have a duty to perform or would not be on your property.

—Give a dog to a very small child unless you are prepared to be constantly on the scene to protect the child as well as the dog.

—Let your dog bark excessively or howl for hours while you are away from home. This howling may be brought to a minimum by proper training of your dog.

—Allow a child to abuse or tease a dog. Make the child a partner in the care and training of the pet.

—Awaken a sleeping dog abruptly. Startled, he may snap at you.

WEDDINGS, ENGAGEMENTS

Sullivan- Yarborough

MR. AND MRS. DANIEL SULLIVAN III

St. Paul Catholic Church in Pass Christian was the setting for the November 11 marriage of Edith Anne Yarborough and Daniel J. Sullivan III. The Reverend Ron Herzog officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Yarborough of Pass Christian. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Sullivan Jr. of New York, N. Y. and SeaGir, N.J. Nuptial music was presented by organist Thomas Bourdin.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white taffeta and French reembroidered lace. It featured off-the-shoulder styling and was accented with bows at the shoulder and train.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

"Specials" abound at our area supermarkets, from staples to special holiday cookery items, so let's get busy—Christmas is only two weeks away, as we all know!

In days long gone, children counted themselves lucky to get an orange or so in their Christmas stockings; now we can enjoy oranges in abundance, can't we? But, don't enjoy them only eaten out of hand, although they're delicious that way; use them in your cooking as well.

So, take advantage of the prices on handsome navel oranges on special at Jitney Jungle, also Winn-Dixie, and use them to give that citrus "zing" to your dishes. For instance, you might buy one of the whole smoked hams, bone in, at Jitney Jungle, or a whole smoked picnic at Winn-Dixie, and baste either choice with fresh orange juice while it's baking, with halved or sliced oranges baked alongside, also. And, you might add some whole or halved bananas, (taking advantage of the super-savings on bananas at National), basting the bananas with orange juice, also. Delicious! Speaking of bananas, here's a tasty, ever-so-rich, easy dessert for the holidays:

BANANA SPLIT PIE

1 box (12 oz.) vanilla wafers, crushed
3/4 cup melted butter or margarine
2 cups powdered sugar
1 cup butter or margarine, softened
2 eggs
5 bananas, sliced
1 can (20 oz.) crushed pineapple, drained
1 carton (13 oz.) frozen whipped topping, thawed
1 cup chopped pecans
Maraschino cherry halves (optional)

Combine crushed vanilla wafers and melted butter and mix well. Press onto bottom and sides of a 13x9x2-inch pan. Combine the powdered sugar, softened butter and eggs, and beat on high speed of electric mixer for 15 minutes. Do not underbeat. Spread sugar mixture on top of wafer crust, and top with the bananas, then cover with pineapple. Spread the whipped topping, and sprinkle with nuts. Garnish with cherries, if desired. Chill thoroughly. Cut into squares to serve. (20 to 40 servings.)

—from Southern Living magazine

For a less calorie-laden dish, to serve with the main course or as dessert, try:

GUATEMALAN BAKED BANANAS

4 slightly-green-tipped medium bananas, peeled, of course
1/4 cup lime or lemon juice
1/3 cup honey
1/4 cup dry sherry
2 Tbsp. butter or margarine, melted
Dairy sour cream
Cinnamon
Place bananas in buttered shallow baking dish, and brush with lime or lemon juice. Blend honey, sherry and butter and pour over bananas. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) 15 to 20 minutes or until bananas are tender. Serve warm with sour cream and a dusting of cinnamon. (Four servings.)

—from Woman's Day Cookbook

To cut fat and calories, substitute low fat yogurt for the sour cream. Another "slimmer" suggestion: Serve sliced bananas, generously topped with sour cream or yogurt, sprinkled with brown sugar. Sour cream is extra-special priced at Jitney Jungle just now.

Addicted as I am to fresh mushrooms, you may be sure that I headed for Delchamps and Jitney Jungle, where large fresh mushrooms are on special. I like them simply sauteed in a minimum of butter or margarine, pepper-dusted with splashes of white wine (the mushrooms either sliced or cooked whole.) And, as a holiday appetizer, I'm sure you'll like:

STUFFED MUSHROOMS

(This is Janice Logan's easy, ever so delicious recipe.)

12 to 18 large fresh mushrooms, stems removed
2 Tbsp. vegetable oil
1/2 lb. fresh lump crabmeat
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 Tbsp. mayonnaise
2 Tbsp. chopped yellow onion

1 tsp. lemon juice
1/2 cup breadcrumbs
2 Tbsp. melted butter
Wash (wipe) mushrooms briefly with damp cloth, brush with the oil and place in a shallow baking pan. In a large bowl, mix crabmeat, egg, mayonnaise, onion, lemon juice and a quarter-cup of the crumbs. Stuff each mushroom with the mixture. Sprinkle remaining crumbs over mushrooms, pour melted butter over top of each, and bake at 375 for 15 minutes.

This is also tasty, using chopped cooked chicken, turkey or shrimp. If you decide to substitute canned crabmeat, be sure to rinse it and squeeze fresh lemon juice over, to cut the canned taste—but I'd rather have the fresh crabmeat and cut down on some other item on my list! I have at times used fresh claw crabmeat, or a mixture, when I've picked the crabs myself.

Beans, one of the most affordable high protein foods, are among my favorite foods, so many varieties, so easy to cook, I serve 'em, from dips to soups to main dishes and so on.

And, along with a special price on packages of dry navy beans, National also offers extra-special buys on two-pound packages of rice—so, with a bit of seasonings and such, there's your complete meal. Winn-Dixie also offers bargains in 10-pound bags of long grain white rice.

Whatever beans I'm using, I like to soak them (eight cups of water, say to a pound of beans) overnight—although I know well that there's a faster method. Next morning, as I start breakfast, I start cooking the beans, tossing in the seasonings, and let them cook themselves—well, almost, as I busy myself doing something else around the house.

As for leftovers, there are seldom any around my house; but, if there are any, there's always bean salad, bean soup, bean dip and such. They aren't wasted!
